DE MOLAY TO INSTALL ITS EXECUTIVES

Junior Masonic Order to Install Officers This Evening

PUBLIC IS INVITED

Sons of Craftsmen Are Banded Together for Right Living

By FRANCIS REED

Arrayed for the first time in robes of their stations, officers of the Glendale chapter, Order of De Molay, will be publicly installed at 8 o'clock this evening in the Masonic temple.

Preparations are being made for a large number of spectators. It is expected that many friends of the Order of De Molay will be present to witness the ceremony, especially members of the local Masonic bodies. There will be present delegates from Hollywood and several outside chapters.

Mr. Ira L. Vance will act as installing officer. He will be assisted by the Rev. C. M. Calderwood and Mr. Percy Priaulx. Mr. Mattison B. Jones will be the orator, and Mr. Joseph S. Thompson, marshal. These men are all members of the Unity chapter, R. A. M., which is sponsor for the local De Molay chapter.

Although De Molay is a secret order, a public installation of officers is provided for. The full ritual will be used. A musical program has been arranged in connection with the ceremony, Miss Gladys White and Mr. Pla rendering vocal solos. Mr. Mattison B. Jones will accept in behalf of the chapter the gifts from various friends. These include Mr. Vance, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, and the Blue lodge. The robes which will be used in the ceremony have been loaned by Hollywood chapter. The local chapter is planning to consider ways and means for purchasing their own robes.

The order of De Molay is composed of sons of Masons and their friends, banded together for better living. Glendale chapter was organized early in October. The officers, chosen at the time of organization and who will be installed this evening, are as follows:

James D. Thompson, master councilor; Francis W. Read, senior councilor; Stillman Chase, junior councilor; Forrest L. Jordan, senior deacon; Allen K. Pollock, junior deacon; L. M. Fletcher, senior steward; Edwin T. Amson, junior steward; Frank Balthis, scribe; Wilfred Cline, treasurer; Harold Jones, Almoner; Valentine Hollingsworth, marshal; Ira Cleeland, standard bearer; Worth Widdows, chaplain; Harold Thompson, sentinel; Harry Bennett, orator; Maurice Widdows, organist; Sam Thompson, Willard Roberts, Harold Timothy, Victor Gunderson, Thomas Wood, Jack Wright and Paul Morgan, preceptors.

INTERESTING BOUTS ARE STAGED HERE

Young Harry of Los Angeles, won from Chris Columbus on a technical knockout in the main event of the boxing show at the American Legion hall, Glendale, last night. It was one of the most interesting bouts ever staged here. Young Harry appeared to have the edge over Chris in the first round but in the second Chris came back and landed some powerful body blows and a few rights to the jaw. Both boys injured themselves in this round. Harry severely sprained his wrist, while a hard left on Chris' face cut his cheek open. Harry landed fast in the third, forcing Chris' seconds to throw in the sponge.

George Burns and Jimmie West fought a draw. Both boys were willing to fight. Joe Kelly threw Walter Dodge twice in ten minutes in a fifteen-minute wrestling match.

ELKS TO MOURN THEIR COMRADES

A fine program has been arranged for the memorial service which is one of the annual events of the Elks' Lodge. It will be held in the lodge hall at 3:30 Sunday afternoon and will be under the general charge of a committee composed of Albert D. Pearce, chairman, and John H. Fanset, Albert E. Cawood, Edwin J. Albright and L. W. Chobe.

Rev. C. M. Calderwood will make the address and a musical program has been secured by Mr. Albright. It will be an open meeting to which the public is invited.

THE WEATHER

EXCHANGE CLUB VOTES AGAINST ANNEXATION

Organization Swings Into Popular Opposition to Filibuster

The Glendale Exchange club yesterday went on record as being against annexation to Los Angeles. This decision was made following much discussion and consideration of the proposition, at their regular noon-day meeting and luncheon held at the Broadway Inn. The club will take a strong stand against any such movement.

Members were delighted in having received as a gift from the Hazen J. Titus Fruit Cake company, an attractive fruit cake. President Kelly announced, however, that the cake would not be cut until next Wednesday noon when the members will have their wives as their guests. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Titus for this beautiful gift.

George Lindsay made a report on the method now being used by the Los Angeles Exchange club in the securing of new members, stating that the membership was divided into two groups—the Hustlers and the Gogetters. It was decided to use such a plan to arouse interest in the local club and Ed N. Radke was appointed to be in charge of the Hustlers and W. Claire Anspach in charge of the Gogetters. Mr. Lindsay reported that this plan had been very successful in Los Angeles and that the membership had been materially increased.

George Whitaker, chairman of the entertainment committee reported that arrangements had been made for a dinner dance to be held at the Broadway Inn on December 6.

D. Ripley Jackson, chairman of the local committee on the Salvation Army drive reported everything in readiness to begin the drive on the week of December 4. There is to be a meeting on that night of the different organizations who are to take part in this campaign and the Exchange club expects to be in the lead in this enterprise. Headquarters are to be at the office of Julius Kranz on North Brand boulevard.

Assistant Secretary Black read a letter from Captain Thomas D. Watson, regarding Community Service. He urged the co-operation of the club in the athletic activities which the Community Service will put on in Glendale during the winter season.

This matter was referred to the committee which the club had previously selected for this purpose with instructions that the club be well represented in these activities and that the committee be in attendance at the next regular meeting of the Community Service leaders.

A letter was also read from Lyman P. Clark, president of the Kiwanis club, urging the Exchange club to participate in the community Christmas tree celebration. W. C. Waring and another member of the club will be the representatives.

Mrs. Clark of the local Red Cross committee was in attendance and presented that cause and the club felt that they would go "over the top" in this drive to the extent of 100 per cent membership.

Secretary Howarth who had been at the head of a committee on the annexation-to-Los Angeles problem, made a report in which he stated that the club as a whole saw no reason whatever for favoring the annexation to Los Angeles. The club is going to take a strong stand against such a movement.

Pamphlets were given each member entitled "Glendale Exchange Club Gives Reasons for Not Annexing to Los Angeles." These will be placed in the hands of Glendale people and should prove of great interest.

Dr. Theodore P. Noehle was voted in as a new member of the club. Guests present included Mr. Spalding and Clyde Crampton.

Members present were A. Gelmor, R. E. Johnston, George Lindsay, Dr. J. A. Belvea, Fred S. Hill, E. B. Sutton, I. Cline, G. E. Harness, Ed N. Radke, G. C. McConnell, R. W. Jessup, George Whitaker, D. R. Jackson, W. B. Kelly, J. A. Howarth, William H. Block, E. J. Smith, W. C. Waring, Art Sherborne, George H. Thomas, W. Claire Anspach, Fred E. Hoyt, C. C. Coghlan and W. Q. Widdows.

GLENDALE IS ASKED TO AID THE GREEKS

Drive of Red Cross for Clothing Is on Today and Tomorrow

SCHOOL HOUSE DEPOTS

Plea for the Refugees of the Turk-ridden District Is Made

Glendale has today and Friday to show her interest in the helpless and friendless in the interest of the Red Cross. This great national organization, backed by the best men and womanhood of our country has undertaken for the sake of humanity to lend a helping hand across the waters to the many thousands in such awful distress for food, shelter and clothing, under the Greek flag.

It is not their fault, they are not to blame, the misfortunes of war, backed and fired by centuries of Turkish hate, jealousy and religious fanaticism, are responsible for the present condition. This is by no means their choosing. Their firesides, farms, homes and, all kinds of business lie in mute yet elequent silence, showing what inhuman rage and brutal savagery can do unrestrained as the Turk showed in and around the ancient and once beautiful city of Symrna.

When the "terrible Turk" began his work of destruction, murder, open rapine and plumber, the innocent people, non-combatants fled before the malstrom like wild fire for their lives. More than 700,000 saved their lives, but without food, shelter or clothing.

Most of this vast number are helpless women and children, old men and women. It is their physical needs that appeal to American rich, powerful and prodigal with her vast resources. We have responded to every needy call to the ends of the earth and still have enough and to spare. It has not impoverished us in the least, but rather has fired our interest and enthusiasm to do still more.

This Thanksgiving season should record for each citizen of Glendale some worthy action that will fill the soul with joy and praise for the opportunity to think of and extent a helping hand to others.

This appeal comes mostly for clothing of all kinds, no matter in what condition, from the head to the foot, for the worst you have will be the best they will have. Drag out from your closet old castoff, faded, partly worn garments, out of style, fit for moths and mice, and bundle them up, give them to a school child to take the nearest school house, take them yourself, you will feel better and your home will be renovated of useless clothing.

Vast relief stores have already started for the seat of need. The enormous volume of American Red Cross relief supplies for the Near East, Greece and surrounding country, soon to be speeding across the Atlantic on a Shipping Board vessel may be visualized from the following cargo table:

Two thousand four hundred tons of flour, 400 tons of cocoa, 200 tons of sugar, 800 tons of beans, 40 tons of prunes, 100 tons of lard, substitutes, 200 tons of rice or corn grits and 4 tons of salt. The total cost of these items is $315,000.

The following clothing outfits will be loaded aboard the same ship: Three thousand baby outfits, 20,000 boys' suits, 40,000 children's underwear, 20,000 women's dresses, 20,000 children's dresses and 20, women's underwear. Totol cost, $130,500.

GROUND BROKEN FOR CATHOLIC SCHOOL

Father O'Neill Wields the Shovel and Starts $50,000 Building

Grond was broken today for the new Sisters' school, to be located on Louise street, between Elk and Lomita avenue. Father James O'Neill turned the first shovel of dirt in the name of God and work is commencing today.

This new Catholic school will cost $50,000 and the contract has been let to the Glendale Construction company. The bishop has given his permission that this school be 100 per cent Glendale and every part of it will be purchased here and put up by Glendale people.

It is the belief of Father O'Neill that religion should be taught along with the other arts.

GLENDALE TAXPAYERS RISE IN UNPRECEDENTED POWER AGAINST ANNEXATIONISTS

Biggest Town Meeting Ever Held in City Places Stamp of Disapproval on Stampede to Join Los Angeles

PROPAGANDA IS MET DECISIVELY

Only Six Vote for Annexation When Resolution Declaring Unalterable Opposition Is Adopted by Seven Hundred

RESOLVED: That this meeting is unalterably opposed to annexation.

—Resolution Adopted at the Anti-Annexation Meting Last Night.

Assembling in its biggest, most genial, thoroughly wideawake town meeting ever gathered in Glendale, taxpayers of the city effectually stamped out the propaganda of annexation to Los Angeles last night in the high school auditorium.

Samped it out, walked on the corpse of the movement and rode home in their machines with good-natured chuckles, in the newly awakened appreciation of their effective union just exhibited for the benefit of Glendale in the future.

From the opening address of Mattison B. Jones, chairman, through the sparkling satire of Judge Fred Taft of Santa Monica, the pointed questioning of annexationists by Harry A. James, the statistical information from Judge Lowe, the moral effect questioned by the Rev. A. B. Smart, the suggestions of Mr. Johnson, the report of Dr. Jessie Russell, the practical suggestion of Messrs. Streit, Truitt, Belcher, Bourne and Woodbury, many of whom were new in Glendale citizens' assemblies, the consolidation idea was romped on.

W. J. Schaefle struck a popular note when he suggested the formation of a taxpayers' league.

D. W. Kulp brought the meeting to a climax when he approved Mr. Schaefle's suggestion and presented the resolution which closed the meeting.

The resolution was passed. More than seven hundred packed into the assembly hall and standing in the doorways and corridors, voted for the resolution.

A total of six voted against it. Then everybody laughed.

The significant note of the meeting was the absence of the old constitutional and persistent objectors. They were there but they were silent. The facts as presented by the speakers were too numerous.

In his opening, Mr. Jones, the chairman, nominated by Roy Kent, who became secretary, presented his own views, which briefly were that until Los Angeles was willing to adopt a borough form and autonomy for annexed districts, local self government, he would fight to stay out of Los Angeles. He referred to the threatened invasion of pool rooms and other evils now shut out of Glendale.

"You know that it requires all the forces we have now, our Y. M. C. A., our Y. W. C. A., our churches, our ministers, and our policing force to maintain the moral tone we have here to protect our boys and girls," he declared. "What are you going to do when you go into Los Angeles?"

He declared Los Angeles was at the limit of its bonded indebtedness, with a total valuation of a half billion and an indebtedness of $87,000,000 as against $21,000.000 new assessed valuation of Glendale with a bonded indebtedness of $1,000.000 and a bonding capacity of $1,500,000, it has not used.

"If it was not for the sewer question," he concluded, "I venture to say this audience would be scattered to their homes, the movie theaters, and the stores right now."

After the applause and laughter, he introduced Judge Fred H. Taft of Santa Monica, whose remarks will be found on another page.

Judge Lowe brought out that when Santa Monica was sought by Los Angeles, it was asked to pay part of the then bonded indebtedness of $38,000,000.

Alexander Mitchell, picking up Judge Taft's reference to concentration of banking capital in Los Angeles through branch banks, asked how Glendale was going to secure money here without going into Los Angeles.

"Why, I think you could go out and work for it yourself," said the Judge sharply.

"What's Mitchell kicking about?" asked Harry James; "he just cleaned un $20,000."

And Mr. Mitchell sank back and quit.

Rev. A. B. Smart asked as to the moral tone produced by annexation.

Judge Taft declared Los Angeles sent police from its center. It had not cleaned up San Pedro, he said.

Annexationist Knox of Glendale and Tujunga expanded upon the fact that a trip east had impressed him with the fact that Los Angeles was a household word, declared it would be advantage to Glendale to be part of such a well-known city.

"Ask the gentleman if when he was east he told people he was from Glendale," suggested Harry James.

After the laugh, Mr. Knox admitted he had boasted of Glendale and asked why Sawtelle had twice united with Los Angeles.

"I can only say," said Judge Taft, mournfully, "it was Sawtelle."

Mr. Knox wanted to know, on information from Judge Lowe, that if the physical value of property owned by Glendale as an incorporated city, was $2,400,000, and its bonded indebtedness was only $1,000,000, why Glendale, as a city, could not make money by selling to Los Angeles. His idea was that Los Angeles would buy the $2,400,000 worth of assets, out of which Glendale could pay $1,000,000 on its debts and have $1,400,000 profit to divide.

W. A. Hall, formerly chief bookkeeper of the Los Angeles assessor's office popped up and said that was not being done.

"I have made out separate tax levies for every district taken in Los Angeles," he declared. "Los Angeles pays nothing for the property of the annexed districts and in addition special tax levies on those districts are made to cover the bonded indebtedness prior to the annexation. They carry their own bonded indebtedness and give their assets to Los Angeles."

Annexationist Lane said Mr. Whitnall, chief of the city planning department of Los Angeles had told him the schools would be taken over by Los Angeles with their cost and Glendale would be asked only to share in the power bonds, the harbor bonds, and the water bonds.

He said the committee of annexationists which visited the Los Angeles city council would report Thursday night at the Wilson Intermediate School.

He said Glendale was paying higher for electric light, more for water and objected to the price of trolley and telephone fare.

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones declared that if Los Angeles was going to take over the schools, she objected. She pointed to a story of graft and corruption printed in Wednesday morning's Times about the school management.

"If that's what we are to receive," she said; "we certainly do not want it."

Roy Kent read a telegram from the chairman of the Railroad Commission which stated "city limits not a force in utility companies rates."

Thus another annexationist balloon collapsed. It meant 'telephone and trolley rates would not be affected by annexation.

Mr. Johnson, newcomer to Glendale, said when he wanted to get city service, he went to the city hall and got it, given courteously and fairly. He pointed to Van Nuys as an example of annexation.

"The streets there are still uncleaned after the last flood," he said; "and the cry there is, 'no funds.' Van Nuys went in for water. It is agricultural. You're not agricultural. Got all the water you want."

Mr. Newby asked if Los Angeles had increased her assessed valuations like Glendale, by 100 per cent, and if Los Angeles did so, if her percentage of bonded indebtedness would not be less.

Dr. Jessie Rusell declared she had been one of a committee of three of the realty board to call on Assessor Hopkins. Mr. Hopkins had told the committee that Glendale had not had an increase for three or four years.

"The values he said had been based on the sales we made, the prices we had put on our property, and the prices we held them at," she declared, "and there had been no personal protest to his office and no change had been asked."

She declared Glendale had nothing to gain and much to lose by annexation.

Streit of the West Side Improvement Association asked a number of pertinent questions and urged the recall on the city council. He declared the matter of regulation was in the hands of the citizens in this regard. It was useless to go into Los Angeles for power to control.

Mr. Truitt, also a member of the Realty Board Committee to visit the assessor, said:

"Not only have assessed valuations been raised in Los Angeles Mr. Hopkins showed us valuations raised three hundred per cent two years ago, three hundred per cent last year, three hundred per cent this year. And there were advances all along the line."

Mr. Belcher said he had bought an acre three years ago. His taxes has advanced from $33 successively to $74. He protested against being picked out.

"When I only own one acre and Roy Kent owns all the land around me," he said; "on my protest they reduced me to $900, for which I am grateful—even if they did help Kent."

Roy Kent rose to answer but was cut short by a Mr. Bourne, who declared he was putting on a big tract in the Wilshire district.

"The sewers are all in, the water is all in," he said; "they have been in ready for connection for eighteen months. They are not connected and they won't be eighteen months hence. Maybe eighteen months more they will not be connected. Los Angeles cannot take care of its own sewer."

D. W. Kulp rose and declared that he was tired of hearing complaints of the city council.

"If you have any complaint it is your own fault," he declared; "it is your duty to attend the council meetings, watch your own affairs. Don't leave it to the other fellow. Mr. Schaefle made a good suggestion—a taxpayers' league—so that if we are going to neglect our own affairs there would be representatives of our organization looking after them for us."

He then sprung his resolution against annexation.

Speaking to the question Mr. Woodbury referred to the bill defeated on referendum, limiting the increase tax rates to five per cent over the previous year. He advocated the enactment of a law so that such a jolt as the city council handed out this year in the rate would never be repeated.

The meeting then broke up without formal adjournment.

NONE "IN CHRIST" ARE CONDEMNED

Rev. Cole Preaches Powerful Sermon on Subject: "In Christ"

MUST BE BORN AGAIN

Large Audiences of Attentive Listeners at Christian Church Meetings

By O. L. KILBORN

When Nicodemus, Pharisee, patrician and member of the Sanhedrim, visited Jesus "by night for fear of the Jews," as narrated in John's gospel, he was utterly bewildered when the gentle teacher who had thrilled and mystified all Judea by his wonderful teaching and remarkable miracles, told him "unless a man is born of water and the spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of heaven." And Paul in many of his epistles repeated and amplified this teaching. After writing the Roman brethren that to enter the kingdom "ye are buried with Christ by baptism into His death and like as He arose from the grave so do ye arise to walk in newness of life." That is, they were to be born of water and the spirit, as Jesus said. And Paul adds, "Therefore there is now no condemnation to them that are in Christ Jesus." The subject of the sermon was "In Christ," and the speaker showed, after presenting the above facts that while there is a great deal of discussion and argument over the condition in the life after death of those who are outside of Christ, there is absolutely no doubt and discussion about those who are "in Christ." And so he urged his hearers to cross the dead line of doubt into absolute safety by complying with the terms of safety.

You people who do not hear these sermons of Rev. Cole are missing something. He is not in the least sensational, but yet drives home every truth with power. He denounces sin in no uncertain terms, yet you can see how his great heart yearns for the sinner and longs to lead him to safety at the foot of the cross. And the song services by the Conners each night, always new, fairly thrill with the gospel message. Come once and you'll be sorry you have missed the meetings that have gone before.

Tonight the sermon subject is "Deceptions." The Conners, the choir and the congregation will have a grand song service, and one of those beautiful old darkey camp-meeting songs will be given.

Tomorrow night the children will give another of their snappy programs before the sermon, and it will be a treat. Then at the close of the service the solemnly beautiful ceremony of "burial by baptism into His death" will be observed.

New Swappers Are Applying for the Swappers' Colony

Charles C. Baum, 115 West Harvard, has an automobile that's in the way. It's a good car, alright, and it runs if you give it gasoline and oil, and put water in the radiator and air in the tires. Sure it runs, but Charlie wants a lot or equity in a lot. Here—you fresh-air fiends, is your chance!

The firm of Knight & Lewis has a client with a rooming-house at the beach, who wants Glendale. He's tired of listening to the wild murmurs of the restless wavelets, and wants to listen to the mountain quail around Glendale. You't can't blame him, can you? Here's the opportunity of those who pine for the deep blue pond.

Elsa-Jane Realty wants to swap a meat market selling real meat. Take most anything.

And along comes the Brenkman Electric on South San Fernando Road. They have a stock of cigars and a cigar case they want to pass on. No reason why Glendale smokers should not "smoke up."

Circle Real Estate company has an 8-room house close to foothills. Most any swap considered, except gold bricks.

O. L. Bunding, Box 875-A, Glendale Press, wants to swap a Fiat, a Maxwell, and a tent, for chickens or anything, says he.

Dutton, the Home Fynder, corner Colorado and Broadway, wants to swap a whole lot of real estate, for other property, or something useful.

Mr. Brown of the Glendale Realty company, has 4 clear lots in Owensmouth for Glendale or Eagle Rock; 40-acre farm in Independence, Kansas, for Glendale income.

Several more husky swappers have applied for admission into the Press' Swap Club. They believe it's better to be inside looking out. It's a great organization, that swap club! Those fellows will swap anything but their wives and kids. They'd let go of their false teeth if the inducements are great enough. They're regular thoroughbreds, so if you don't want to swap steer clear of them.

Newcomers to the Press Swap Club are:

W. A. Heitman, 1736 South Fernando Road.

J. F. Riggs, 209 West Broadway.

Glendale Phonograph company, 126 South Brand boulevard.

Advance Realty company, 310 East Broadway.

G. A. Smart, 204 East Broadway.

Brenkman Electric company, South San Fernando.

Best Way Is to Weight at Window

In response to suggestions from the Department at Washington the local post office is making a plaintive appeal for the co-operation of the public in the mailing of Christmas packages and the observance of certain simple rules, such as:

Have all parcels weighed at the window and prepay postage in full instead of guessing at the weight.

Address all parcels plainly and completely, including street address, if any.

Write on package the name and address of the sender.

Pack articles carefully in strong, durable containers. Wrap carefully so the package will not burst open, and upon it, if desired, write: "Do not open until Christmas."

Insure valuable parcels and do not enclose letters as that would subject the entire package to letter postage.

Assistant Postmaster Hallett nounces that as soon as the Christmas rush begins not only will more windows for the reception of packages be opened in the Glendale office, but they will be opened earlier in the day, possibly by 7 a. m. so that patrons on their way to work may mail parcels instead of waiting until near closing time. This will not only be a convenience to office employes but may speed the parcels on their way 24 hours earlier than otherwise.

MRS. MONTGOMERY EXTENDS THANKS

In the letter of appreciation given yesterday to the many Glendale merchants who so generously assisted in the huge success of the Society Circus for the Tuesday Afternoon club, three names were left out by mistake. They were Trice Furniture Co., Page Furniture Co., and the Irish Linen store. Mrs. Montgomery wishes to thank them just as heartily as she did the others.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

Automobiles belonging to G. F. Newman, 237 North Cedar, and A. T. Inks of Los Angeles, collided at the corner of Los Feliz and San Fernando road at 7:45 Wednesday morning. Little damage was done and no one was injured.

Thomas Stevenson, 521 Olive, Burbank, and a party whose name could not be learned, were drivers of machines that came together at Los Feliz and San Fernando, Wednesday afternoon. The damage was slight.

NURSE IS KNIFED BY STRANGER

Miss Myrtle Jones of Sanitarium Found Bleeding on Grounds

POLICE MAKE ARREST

Declares Man Sprang at Her Out of Closet and Stabbed Her

In a dazed condition and with blood streaming from a knife wound several inches in length, extending from her forehead to her ear, Miss Myrtle Jones, a nurse at the Glendale sanitarium, was found by a companion nurse wandering aimlessly about the grounds of the sanitarium at about 6:15 o'clock Wednesday night. She had been stabbed by a man whose identity has not been definitely ascertained, the cutting taking place in a closet in the girl's room in the sanitarium dormitory. One arrest has been made by the Glendale police.

Immediately upon learning of the attack, C. E. Kimlin, manager of the sanitarium, telephoned the local police and Chief Fraser, Detective Royle and Lieutenant Griffin responded. On account of the hysterical condition of Miss Jones, she was unable to give an account of how the wound was inflicted or even the faintest information as to the identity of her assailant.

For several hours Miss Jones' condition kept the officers in the dark as to the assailant or the motive for the crime, but bit by bit the police secured from the nurses in the hospital, evidence that led to the arrest of a man living in a town about thirty miles from Glendale. The arrest was made before Miss Jones was sufficiently rational to give an account of the crime.

At 9 o'clock this morning the unfortunate girl had sufficiently recovered to tell the following story:

"Shortly before the incident occurred I finished work at the sanitarium. I went directly to my room in the dormitory. Without the slightest suspicion that anyone was in the room, I went to the closet to hang up my things. As I stepped in the closet a man whose face I could not see, sprang at me and covered my head with a white cloth, so that my cries could not be heard. As we struggled he cried:

"'Now I've got you!'

"'That is all he said. While the cloth was over my head this fellow plied his knife. Frantic with pain and fright I managed to pull the cloth from my head. The window was open so I ran to it and sprang through it to the ground. What happened after that I do not remember. One of the girls, I understand, found me and took me into the hospital.

"It is a clear case of spite work," said Chief of Police Fraser this morning. "No attempt was made at robbery or anything else other than cutting, the main idea being, apparently, to disfigure Miss Jones and to make her suffer for some reason."

This concert is being given through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. James, complimentary to the Eastern Star chapter. Several other talented artists will be heard in addition to the boy violinist. The friends and families of members have also been invited to attend the program, which is scheduled for 9:30 o'clock.

GLENDALE AWAKE! IS CALL OF THE DUNLOPS

"Between what 'you think' and what the 'Bible says' is a marked difference; safety first, see the Book of Rules."

"Christians are God's agents to save this old world which is going to hell so fast you can not see it for the dust."

"You like an evangelist, even though he shoots your old carcass full of holes."

"'Ye are my witnesses,' says Christ, "whether you are a backslider or a redhot Christian."

"Glendale, Awake!" was the theme of Dr. H. P. Dunlop, evangelist of Chicago, Wednesday night in the big meeting at the Tropico Presbyterian church. "We are delighted with the fine crowds each night and the hearty co-operation of the good Methodist brethren and their pastor, Dr. Brink," says Dr James F. Winnard, the minister, "and we are praying and working for a mighty blessing for this part of Glendale. We want the many new families who have come to live in our community to use this splendid opportunity during the revival to come and get acquainted with the good people of the Tropico district and enjoy these wonderful meetings."

"Ephesians 5:14: 'Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead and Christ will give thee light, is my burning text," said Dr. Dunlop. "Sodom and Gomorrah were self-satisfied, prosperous and wicked cities and God said He would destroy them because of their sinfulness. He did rain fire and brimstone down upon them and they perished. As God looked upon sin then, so does He today; and your refined, respectable, perfumed sin is a stench in the sight of a holy God. Awake Glendale to this fact. Christian, awake to the fact that 'ye are the light of the world!' Men are asleep today—(1) To the awfulness of sin; (2) to the fact of a judgment; (3) the fact of a hell; (4) to the time of repentance. The devil has a lot of religious dope for folks these days, all he asks is for you to just live in one pet sin and he will claim you as his very own, God's word never changes, sin must be punished, so Glendale awake. I want to help you, so come out tonight—7:30 to 8:30 prompt—and we will consider the theme: Num. 32:23, 'Be sure your sins will find you out.'"

A duet by the evangelist and his wife, "The Great Judgment Morn" and special number of the big choir of young people will be the features of the service.

HIGH CABINET IS ENLARGED BY NEW MEMBERS

Recently Adopted Constitution Goes Into Effect and Election Follows

This week the new constitution adopted by the student body of Glendale high last week, went into effect this week and the class representatives to be added to the cabinet roster were elected as follows: Seniors, Stanley Johns; juniors, Katherine Stofft; sophomores, Leslie Lavelle; freshmen, Read Stearnman.

Heretofore the cabinet has been composed largely of seniors, but under this new method each class has direct representation. That the selection may be the more representative, each roll room averaging 25 students elects one member to a class council and this council elects one of its number to act as chairman and represent the class in the cabinet.

Vice President Ferguson is enthusiastic over the timber chosen and over the prospects of a very democratic and efficient administration. The new plan will be retroactive in effect. It will not only carry to the cabinet the will of the class, but will provide a medium through which cabinet rulings can be explained and defended before the classes.

REV. WALDO PARKER TO BE ORDAINED AT ST. JUDES

The ordination of Rev. Waldo D. Parker, the first and probably the only service of its kind ever to be held in Burbank, will take place tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at St. Judes Episcopal church.

The Rev. Parker is to be ordained to the Priesthood by Bishop Johnson of Pasadena and Bishop Stevens of Los Angeles. The Rev. P. A. Easley of St. Stevens church, Hollywood, will be the preacher. Assisting in the ordination are Rev. J. A. Evans, Rev. Renison, Rev. A. H. Dexter. The choir will furnish music.

The service is centuries old and a most beautiful one. Burbank may never see another one like it for ordinarily this service is held in an Episcopal cathedral.

The trouble about being good friends with a doctor is that you never can tell when he is looking you over with a professional eye and appraising your pocketbook.

JUDGE TAFT TELLS FACTS ON EVILS OF ANNEXATION

Describes Efforts to Absorb Santa Monica and Applies It to Glendale

Judge Fred Taft of Santa Monica was the principal speaker at the anti-consolidation meeting at the high school last night. He said in part:

"I have been a student of the annexation of the various outlying cities of Los Angeles for years. I have looked into the plan from every angle and have watched every move of the working of the scheme. That is why I am so bitterly opposed to anything of the kind. So decidedly am I against such annexation that if I am to speak I must talk as strongly as I can against the move. If I cannot do this I simply must keep silent.

"The question of whether Glendale will annex to Los Angeles or whether she will remain an independent city is a question for you people to decide. I am not going to try to tell you what to do. I simply will endeavor to tell you why Santa Monica, in which place I live, refused to be made a party to the grabbing scheme of Los Angeles. I firmly believe, friends, that if you get into Los Angeles you will be merely the tail end of the affairs of that city, and after you are once in you can waggle or not as you see fit. Remember, folks, Los Angeles is like a politician. Before election he is the finest kind of a friend to you, but after you have swept him into office, that friendship supposed fades away.

"Five years ago last August Los Angeles turned its annexation slush fund toward Santa Monica, its aim being to gather that city into its fold, just as she is trying to gather you folks in right now. Nineteen out of twenty people of Santa Monica, who were working at that time for annexation were those who had in the past been refused public office. They were people who were very desirous of securing public recognition, but the people of Santa Monica would not have anything to do with them. For that reason they wanted a change. They decided Santa Monica was not good enough for them and they decided they would revolutionize things. They were mistaken in their calculations. Santa Monica would have none of the annexation stuff. They believed that because they were never elected to office Santa Monica was not fit to govern herself, but we have shown them that all the municipal brains are not located in Los Angeles. I may say, also, that it is that same crowd that is endeavoring to block anything and everything in the way of public improvements that are brought up in Santa Monica. Remember, folks, I am now talking of Santa Monica and not Glendale. (Applause.)

"At the time Los Angeles made its earnest effort to swallow Santa Monica, its bonded indebtedness was $38,000,000. In that five years this municipal debt has trebled—it is now something over $100,000,000. A short time before that election a smooth individual employed by Los Angeles, came to see me. For two or three hours this fellow spieled to me and promised to do everything under the sun for Santa Monica providing she would join Los Angeles, all of which he knew the city would not and could not carry out. I tell you Los Angeles never promises anything—she can't promise anything. The promises come from a few irresponsible persons who claim to be speaking for that city. They clothe their statements in such cunning expressions that it takes a very wary man to remain undeceived. If you go into Los Angeles you will be of no more importance than a fly on an ox's horn.

"The belief that a person will get as much consideration from the Los Angeles council in the event of annexation as he can from his present city fathers is not true. Let the perso who believes such a thing go and watch the Los Angeles council's proceedings for half a day. If he is not converted to the side of the antis he is hopeless.

"When Sawtelle went into Los Angeles she was promised a playground and recreation center, aqueduct water, connection with the sewer system, and many other things. Did she get them? I should say not—not one of them. She could not get connection with the outfall, because that sewer cannot take care of the Los Angeles sewage. Do not be misled with promises that Los Angeles will take care of Glendale so far as the outfall is concerned. She can't do it. Some of the boosters who want to see Glendale annexed, will promise that, but it simply cannot be done. I have investigated this problem for years for I believe sewage disposal is one of the most vital questions facing any city.

"Did Sawtelle get aqueduct water? She did not. Up to this day she has never had a drop of it. She has been paddling her own canoe alone since annexation as she did before it occurred, so far as the water is concerned, notwithstanding the fact that she was compelled to shoulder $1,000,000 worth of the water bonds of that city.

"Did she get her civic center? She did not. Los Angeles is going to spend $1,000,000 for a civic center, it is true. It will be a wonderful affair, but, friends, that civic center will be located as close as possible to the heart of the original Los Angeles, and not in any of her outlying branches.

"Glendale doesn't need pep and ginger. You are the livest city in the world of your size, and you are the admiration of all who have had anything to do with you. If you go into Los Angeles, will you grow any faster than you are growing? I should say not. That is practically impossible. San Pedro joined Los Angeles years and years ago and she has practically stood still for years, while Long Beach, which is just a few miles away, has grown with leaps and bounds—and Long Beach is not a part of Los Angeles. Long Beach has beaten San Pedro ten to one in growth during the past ten years.

"No doubt Los Angeles will put her best foot forward just as she has done to all of the cities that have been annexed to her in the past. Some of the boosters there will make flattering promises, but, friends, don't be drawn in. I tell you the skids are greased to go into Los Angeles, but the doors are locked against coming out again. (Applause.)

"Some people put up the argument that you are 'destined to go into Los Angeles—why not now?' Listen, folks, you all are destined to die—why not now?

"Another thing, folks, you have a clean city here. You have a place in which you can rear your children in safety. Keep it clean. If you go into Los Angeles, pool rooms will doubtless spring up in your midst, and you know as well as I do the type of fellows that a feature of this kind brings with it. You should vote against annexation if for no other reason than to keep out the pool and billiard rooms. Don't measure your town on a basis of dollars and cents."

Father Dead, Woman Elected to Succeed Him in Congress

Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck of Illinois was the only woman elected at the recent elections to serve for the remainder of the sixty-seventh congress. She will serve the unexpired term made vacant by the death of her father, William E. Mason, who was congressman at large. Her term will expire March 4, next. The only other woman in congress during that period will be Aunt Alice Robertson of Oklahoma, who was defeated for re-election. Both women are republicans.

PROMINENT FIGURES IN AMERICAN POLITICS

United States Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, veteran member of Congress and leader of the Democratic minority in the Senate, has announced that his health will not permit him to retain the leadership. Charles W. Bryan, brother of William Jennings Bryan, has been elected Democratic Governor of Nebraska. George W. P. Hunt, Democrat, has been elected Governor of Arizona. Friend W. Richardson, Republican, has been elected Governor of California.

REALTY BOARD TO AVOID ENDORSING CANDIDATES

Declines to Name Anyone for Director of Chamber of Commerce

The Glendale Realty Board at its meeting Wednesday refused to officially endorse any of the candidates for director of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, as requested by a communication received by the secretary of the organization. It was the concensus of opinion that it would be unwise to recommend any of the candidates, but that the members should vote individually on the candidates.

Room seven, Central building, has been secured by the Glendale Realty Board as its headquarters, and hereafter all business of the organization will be conducted from that place.

Arrangements are being made for the putting into effect by the board of the multiple listing system. The time for this new departure becoming effective is December 1 and it is believed that before that time all details will have been arranged. A campaign of publicity as to what the multiple listing is will be conducted by the organization soon.

With a shout the members of the board came out squarely against ennexation to Los Angeles at this time. The vote against this move was unanimous and the move that such a decision be registered was made by W. L. Truit.

BOX OFFICE PAYS STUDENTS' PERFORMANCE $66

Proceeds of Wednesday's pay assembly at Glendale high when the playlet, "Their Anniversary," was presented by pupils in the dramatic department, totalled $66, which was divided equally between the girls' and boys' leagues.

The Girl's league already had $175 in its treasury, realized from its jinks party and with this new contribution to swell its fund it feels rich and mportant. Officers state the league is planning to cooperate in the Christmas activities of the Welfare bureau and the Elks' lodge in the pfiroviding of Christmas cheer for the poor of this district, and it will also give a Christmas party for poor children brought from the Boyd Street school in Los Angeles.

ELKS TO HOLD CHARITY BALL ON NOV. 25

Given to Augment Benevolent Fund of the Organization

"Charity," as basic principle on which the Benevolent and Protective order of Elks is founded, is the purpose for which the Glendale Elks' clubhouse will be thrown open to the public on Saturday night, November 25. The occasion will be the annual Elks' Christmas charity dance, given to augment the funds of the club in the holiday charity work. Joe Bellue is chairman af the committe in charge, which also includes Harry Whaley, William Bode and Gerald Dockeray.

An attractive feature in connection with the dance, which will be open not only to members of the local lodge but also to the public, will be the fact that there will be dancing both on the main ballroom floor and also in the jinks room. William Bode's ten-piece orchestra will furnish the melody in the main dancing room, and in the jinks room Ed. Moniot's seven-piece orchestra will play. Of the seventeen musicians, fifteen are donating their services, it being necessary to secure the other two players from Los Angeles.

Arthur Dibbern, exalted ruler of No. 1289, is anxious to make this charity dance the biggest affair of its kind given in Glendale.

MISS FERGUSON IS SHOWERED BY HER ASSOCIATES

The friendly rivalry between departments at Pendroy's Store to see which can develop the most pep and initiative, manifested itself Wednesday night in a surprise party and kitchen shower for Dorothy Ferguson of the millinery department, given by her associates on the second floor. She has just purchased a pretty home at 547 West Harvard and her friends welcomed the chance to rejoice with her and help furnish it. The evening's program included the formation of a "Second Floor Club," devoted to the social and other interests of its members, which will meet once a month. As a further co-operation in her housekeeping plans, the guests wrote recipes for the honors, and before the group separated refreshments of a Thanksgiving order—coffee, sandwiches, pickles and doughnuts—were served.

Those present were: Mrs. Earl Pendroy, Miss Edna Buchanan, Mrs. Elsie Williams, Misss Jessie Brown, Miss Mary E. Glatt, Miss Maude Gammel, Miss Hallie Drake, Miss Florence Pearson, Mrs. Mary [illegible]ner, Mrs. Jennie Hinthorn, Miss Alta Anderson, Miss Buenna Gray, Miss Faye Dunlop, Mrs. Frances McLaughlin, Miss Helen Capus, Miss Dora Crowe, and the guest of honor, who came to Southern California from Portland, Ore., and gave up a position in Los Angeles to come to Glendale.

Mr. and Mrs. Pendroy are very much pleased with the manner in which their employes are identifying themselves with the city and becoming ardent boosters for Glendale. Another employe, Miss Maude Merwin, who is in the yardage department on the first floor, and who came to Glendale from Peabody, Kansas, has also bought herself a nice home on Oak street.

A jolly group of Glendale girls enjoyed a hike recently, going up into the foothills north of Glendale. They took their lunch and spent a happy day.

VETERAN SCOUT JOINS LOCAL COUNCIL

Rhodes T. Graham, Eight Years in the Service, Enters Local Band

The Verdugo Hills district Council of the Boy Scouts of America has become richer in leadership in the person of Rhodes T. Graham, an eight-year Scout man with a keen knowledge of the Scout program.

Mr. Graham volunteered his services to Scout Executive Harold Benner last week. Because of his experience in scouting he has been temporarily appointed as acting field scout executive and will begin his duties immediately.

Mr. Graham joined the Bronx New York Troop No. 207 in 1912 and has passed several examinations under Dan Beard and L. Spencer of the National Headquarters. Following a trip across the continent in which he gathered a great deal of scout material he became scoutmaster of Troop No. 1 Alhambra from which he entered the service of Uncle Sam. After the armistice Mr. Graham went to Casper, Wyoming, where he served under Scout Executive Barry L. Black as scoutmaster and deputy scout commissioner. While under Mr. Black he qualified for star scout and is now on the way to the highest rank in scouting, that of Eagle.

He will be at the district scout office every morning from 9:00 until 12:00 to interview scouts and leaders. Monday evenings he will be at the Glendale Public Library from 7 to 9 o'clock to talk to scouts and others interested in the work.

At the Theatres

AT THE T. D. & L.
For thrills, both melodramatic and emotional, there has not been a motion picture production made in years that can compare with "Brawn of the North," the second Laurence Trimble-Jane Murfin production starring Strongheart, the wonder dog, which will be shown for the last times today.

Brawn is a dog owned by Marion Wells who goes to the north country to aid her brother and fiance to develop a mine. The wild country has exposed her fiance for what he really is—a petty souled rascal—and a fight ensues from Marion's refusal to marry him, in which the brother is killed and the fiance is drowned as far as Marion knows. But he comes back and Brawn evens the score for the brother's death, and later when Marion is happily married to the hero the dog rescues her baby from a pack of starving wolves.

And the wolves are really there—more than a dozen of the gaunt beasts that live up to the reputation of being sharks of the wooded country. The way in which they play their part in the vital drama is a tribute to the genius of Mr. Trimble in getting animals to do exactly what is required to give a story genuine entertainment value.

Greenwich Village Revue
And tomorrow, both afternoon and night, at 3:30, 7:30 and 9:15 "The Greenwich Village Girl Revue" will hold down the stage at the T. D. and L. theater. Eight dancing, musical, jazzy girls—nothing like it ever presented in Glendale before.

AT THE UNITED
"Back to Yellow Jacket," which will be seen at the United Theater, Eagle Rock City, tonight and tomorrow, is said to be one of the most exciting stories that has dripped from the facile pen of Peter B. Kyne. Mr. Kyne's stories are noted for their plausibility and dramatic situations.

In "Back to Yellow Jacket," he has selected for his chief characters a carefully reared wife and mother suddenly thrust amid the squalid desolation of a desert mining town, to suffer the abhorrent lawless environment and share the miserable lot of a penniless husband prospecting for gold.

With mind warped by continual failure and disappointments the husband becomes morose, then suspicious, abusive and finally insanely jealous, goading his faithful wife to the point of desperation with false accusations.

How she flees in a moment of mad impulse, leaving behind her a maze of most startling and unexpected complications, and how she finally returns to find all misery and desolation vanished and in their place love, happiness and plenty, make a story of breathless interest and amazing climax.

Time isn't always money to the man who does a credit business.

Mythological Origin
of the world, according to one fable for which Orpheus is said to be responsible, is that Time was in the beginning, but he himself had no beginning. From Time proceeded Chaos, a yawning abyss, wherein brooded Night and Mist and fiery air. Time caused the mist to spin around the central fiery air until the mass became a huge world egg which split into halves, Heaven and Earth.

Of course, you realize that it is every man's foremost duty to do unto you as he would have you do unto him.

Ireland
In 1156 Dermod MacMurrough, who had been deposed for his tyranny from the Kingdom of Leinster, went to Henry II of England for help. The English monarch authorized MacMurrough to raise forces in England to reconquer his territory.

FELINES TO CONVENE IN ANNUAL BEAUTY CONTEST

Glendale's biggest and best Cat Show will be held in this city Friday and Saturday, November 24-25. The place selected, 105 South Central, is centrally located, and is of easy access to both visitors and exhibitors. The event is sponsored by the Glendale Cat Club, a wide-awake organization of local cat lovers and fanciers. Former exhibitions of this kind have attracted such widespread notice that Glendale is known throughout the country as a "cat show town."

Entries have been received from many towns in Southern California as well as from Glendale. Cats big, cats little, cats old, cats young, cats aristocratic, cats plebian, cats of all kinds will look their best in order to capture a prize. Persians of high degree and royal lineage will look askance at common little house cats caged nearby, wondering who had the nerve to exhibit those incomplete-looking short-hairs.

The Judge, Mrs. Walter Ross, will be governed by the rules of the Cat Fanciers Federation of New York, the national organization of which the Glendale Cat Club is a member. There is more than the usual amount of speculation as to what cat the Judge will hand the highest of all honors, Best Cat in Show. Heretofore, that honor has been walked off with by Champion Northern Silver Lion, an imported cat of marvelous show record and owned by a Glendale cat enthusiast. Lion met an untimely death at the hands of some vicious poison fiend some months ago and cat "fans" are wondering what pussy will succeed in capturing the highest honor this year. Another honor greatly sought after is Best Sire, judged by his descendants on exhibition. Kieto No. 2, owned by Mrs. Frank Bundy of Los Angeles, and Prince Robin of Carnefax, owned by Mrs. J. H. McGuire of San Bernardino, will contest with Glendale's finest Sires for this award. A long line of female cats will be up for Best Female and for Best Dam, judged by descendants. Of course, every exhibitor knows his or her own cat to be the very best of all, but hard-hearted judges have a way of not agreeing with the opinion of these expectant aspirants.

The show entry clerk says that the entry blanks foretell many interesting features. Pan-zi-ku-lei, the well known cat born in India, raised in Honolulu and now living in San Pedro, has been entered by her proud owners, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hale, formerly of Glendale. Pan-zi-ku-lei's color is unusual, and her coat is sleek and silky, quite unlike the fluffy Persians. The oldest cat entered is Jimmie, owned by Mrs. Leo Schiller of West California avenue. Jimmie is an Ohioan and has crossed the continent by auto several times. The only great-grandmother entered is Dr. Ashcroft's Ziwa of Hollywood. Ziwa is a blue Persian and will have reason to bask in the reflected glory of the beauty of her son, granddaughter and great grandchildren, all lovely blues. Matilija Cattery has entered a seven months kitten weighing over ten pounds. It is rumored that the kitten's quality is equal to his quantity. The same cattery has entered once more the neuter that has been Best Neuter in five shows. Mickey, registered as Champion Michelitorena de Verdugo, the only short hair Champion west of New York, will appear again, this time with her family of two perpetual motion kittens that look like a chip off the old block. Other Mothers and Litters (kittens under four months) entered by Glendale, are Sequoia Princess, belonging to Mrs. F. H. Wallace, and Lady, owned by Louis Hollister. Altogether, nine Mothers with Litter are entered and these cages are always the centers of attraction in any show. The antics of the scampering baby kittens are sure to appeal to the animal-loving public. The largest entries from out-of-town are: Mrs. Durnford, Hollywood, 10; Mrs. McGuire, San Bernardino, 5; Mrs. Bundy, Los Angeles, 6; Mrs. Miller, Pasadena, 4; Mrs. Long, Van Nuys, 4; Mrs. Hale, San Pedro, 4, and Mrs. Hendrickson, Los Angeles, 3.

Prior to the judging, Dr. J. Whytock, official Veterinarian, will examine each cat. Any cat suffering from any communicable disease will be debarred from the showroom immediately. The Judge then proceeds with her work, scoring each cat in its own class, afterwards judging the outstandingly good specimens for the highest honors. The points in judging are:

Head	20
Eye Color	10
Color	25
Coat	12½
Condition	12½
Body type	20
	100

Each cat is judged in a well-lighted undecorated cage. The cat is judged "as is," regardless of pedigree or previous show successes. The two main classifications are Long Hair and Short Hair. Each of these is subdivided into 102 classes. In the present show 81 classes are represented, with a total entry of 142 cats and kittens.

PRIZES

In each class first place is awarded a blue ribbon; second place, red ribbon, and third place, a yellow ribbon. Championship points are acknowledged by red, white and blue striped ribbons. Purple ribbons and silver medals will be given to the Best Cat in Show, Best Cat opposite sex and Best Novice. Bronze medals will be given to the Best Kitten in Show, Best Neuter and Best Short Hair. The Glendale Cat Club offers to its members three-win Challenge Cups for Best Male, Best Female, Best Novice; Best Novice, Best Kitten, Best Short Hair, Best Sire and Best Dam. The Silver Society of New York offers twelve Challenge Cups. The Blue Cat Society of America (headquarters, Washington, D. C.) offers fifteen Challenge Trophies. Many cups and trophies are offered by individuals for open competition. In addition to these, special white Honor Ribbons are offered for Best Champion, Best Male, Best Female, Best Brace, Best Team, Best Breeding Pair, Best Cat exhibited by child, Best Cat born in Glendale, Best Cat from out of town, Largest Exhibit, Largest Exhibit one color, Best Red Ribbon Cat, Best Yellow Ribbon Cat and Best Cat never shown before.

Some of the Prize Kittens Raised by Dr. Libbie Ashcroft, 1125 Melrose Avenue, Glendale

The compartment of an express train in England contained two passengers—a dear old lady and a little boy.

Suddenly the train plunged into a tunnel—the compartment was in darkness, the old lady heard the carriage door open and close, the train emerged and the small boy was nowhere to be seen!

She jumped to her feet and made for the communication cord, but as she raised her hand she saw a small foot peeping from beneath the seat.

"You little wretch!" she screamed. "You might have sent me in a fit!"

The small boy crowled out and screwed his knuckles to his eyes.

"Yes, mum," he sobbed, in bitter disappointment; "but the old lady I did it to last Monday did have a fit!"

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—Advertisement.

HOXIE PHOTOGRAPHS THE VOICE

For photographing the human voice and reproducing it, not as a picture, but as the sound of the voice itself, a new device, known as the paulo-photophone, has been perfected by Charles A. Hoxie of the General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y. It is believed the machine will make the talking-motion picture a reality.

PUBLIC IS INVITED TO CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

To Aid in Making Thanksgiving Day a Real Celebration

"On this day each year," said Mrs. Albert Crutcher, president of the Children's hospital, Sunset boulevard and Vermont avenue, "we appeal to the generosity of our friends in an effort to secure donations of linen and blankets to maintain the hospital for the coming year. We need sheets, both woolen and cotton blankets, rippelette bedspreads, all of these in single bed size; pillow cases, face towels, bath towels, bolts of white crash toweling, wash rags, 18-inch pads for baby cribs, diapers or bolts of material from which diapers can be made, bolts of white outing flannel, bolts of Indian-head, bolts of unbleached muslin, bolts of material for kitchen towels, white marquisette for window curtains, table cloths and table napkins. Donations of money will also be very acceptable."

For twenty-one years the Children's hospital has cared for the sick and crippled children of Southern California. It depends for support upon donations from lovers of little children; 87 per cent of its time and 75 per cent of its money is devoted to charity work.

The Children's hospital is nonsectarian and serves the people of Los Angeles and Southern California without regard to creed or color. Last month 271 children were cared for in hospital beds and 1481 children were treated in the free clinics and muscle training department.

Miss L. V. Swift, superintendent, invites you to bring your donation to the hospital on Thanksgiving day. "Come and see the happy faces of the children who are so patiently undergoing the necessary treatment to make them strong and well. We know you will join with us in our thanks to the wonderful doctors who give their services without charge to restore these unfortunate little ones to health and usefulness."

Mrs. Crutcher, in her appeal, says "Will you, who have so much for which to be thankful, turn a deaf ear to the needs of these little ones, or will you respond generously and help provide the facilities to remove the handicap that may prevent these boys and girls from reaching that state of manhood and womanhood which is the birthright of every American child?"

If possible deliver your gift to the Children's hospital, Sunset boulevard and Vermont avenue. Donations may be left at the Children's hospital salvage department, 712 Maple avenue, and they will be delivered to the hospital.

Almost as soon as a man joins a Don't Worry Club they begin making trouble for him about his dues.

BOSTON HEIRESS HELD IN INSANE ASYLUM AND GUARDIAN WHO IS ACCUSED IN COURT

William F. Jardine, guardian of Miss Dorothy Gordon, pretty heiress to an estate estimated at $500,000, is accused of having had her held in an insane asylum, although he knew she was perfectly sane. She attempted to escape, and it is charged that Miss Gordon was strapped to her cot every night. John L. Jardine, her uncle, has brought suit to have Jardine removed as guardian and trustee of her estate.

THE OLD GARDENER SAYS

Occasionally a Wistaria is found which persistently refuses to bloom. Root pruning done at this season often proves an effective remedy by inducing a new growth of tiny rootlets. Mark off a circle, or a semi-circle if the plant is growing against a building, about three feet from the base of the trunk. Then dig a trench and cut off all the roots you encounter with a sharp ax. Make a liberal application of bone meal in the spring and the second spring you will probable have your reward.

The boys in camp were to be inspected by a famous general, and the sergeants were going round to make sure that everything was in perfect readiness. One of them, a regular martinet, paused before a new recruit and asked some questions regarding his kit equipment.

"Everything complete?" he queried. "Got a spoon?"

"Yes," was the reply.

"Yes, what?" barked the sergeant. "Do you think you are talking to a dog?"

"Yes, sergeant," came the mild response, and nobody wondered why the company laughed.

La Crescenta Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Thomas were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Flagg. of San Gabriel Mr. and Mrs. Flagg were former residents of La Crescenta.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Tritt and children of Montrose returned Monday from a month's stay with Mrs. Tritt's mother, Mrs. H. R. Gillman of Redondo Beach.

John Drennen of San Francisco is the house guest of his sister, Miss Gertrude Drennen.

Mrs. Minarvia Snyder and Miss Maude Phillips of Pasadena and Mrs. L. Fenn of Los Angeles, were Sunday guests of Miss Delia Bastable of Los Angeles avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. George Van Cortland of Los Angeles are guests at the La Crescenta hotel for this month.

Mrs. V. B. Chaflin of Glendale was a dinner guest of Mrs. Addie Foster and Miss Maude Foster last Monday.

Perry Whiting of Los Angeles is spending some time in La Crescenta looking after his interests which comprise 650 acres in the Verdugo hills including Wildwood canyon, the old homesite. Many new trails and bridle paths are being laid out. None of this land is on the market.

SPARKLING WORK SHOWS DRAMA TALENT

The excellence of the work that is being done by students in the drama department of Glendale high inspires the inquiry as to whether they have unusual talent or whether the instruction is above the average. Certain it is they are doing exceptional work for amateurs who are carrving the customary quota of studies.

The little play presented at two assemblies Wednesday noon had plenty of sparkle and was interpreted with an intelligence and naturalness not often exhibited by novices.

Ed Stockbridge as the good, plodding, devoted husband of the brilliant club woman so greatly in request as a speaker—personated by Kathleen Woods—and Mildred Thompson as the no less devoted conjugal partner of the gay Gerald Drummond whom Allen Pollock personated, left little to be desired in the realism of drawing room comedy, but Lura Baldwin as the Irish maid rose considerably above the average. If she chooses to do so, she may have a very good future on the stage unless all signs fail.

Mr. Brewster, head of the dramatic section of the English department has reason to feel proud of the response his students are making to his instruction. Another play on which the senior class in dramatics has been working is "Boosting Bridget," which is about ready for production and will be given some time before Christmas. Still another one, "The Pot Boiler" by the author of "Their Anniversary," just presented, will probably be held up for the annual school variety show to be given in December. This will complete the six-play quota for the first quarter of the year. After its production every student in the class will have taken part on the stage.

The aim of the instructor has been to give every member a chance in production instead of trying to develop a few stars. The carrying out of this policy will mean that 38 pupils have been used in six plays.

Besides the play mentioned the department is at work on other features for the variety show in cooperation with Vice-Principal Ferguson and with Mrs. Dora Gibson, head of the music department.

DESTROYER FLEET IS ROTTING IN IDLENESS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—The United States destroyer fleet in Pacific waters is rapidly rotting away from lack of adequate attention, naval officers declare.

The destroyers anchored in the Pacific, for the most part at San Diego, deteriorated at least $20,000,000 in the past twelve months and will deteriorate more rapidly than that during the coming twelve months if they are not ordered properly conditioned and manned, it is stated by officers who naturally refused to be quoted.

Many of the destroyers which are going to pieces in this manner are Uncle Sam's newest vessels, contracted for toward the end of the war, which have only recently been put in commission and accepted by the government, and which have not steamed 1,000 miles.

There are now declared to be in the neighborhood of eighty destroyers decommissioned and lashed together in lonely groups at the government docks near San Diego.

Theoretically, these destroyers are supposed to be ready to have crews put aboard them for sea service at a moment's notice. Officers point out, however, that to keep these destroyers from rotting, it is necessary to drydock them at least twice a year, and to put crews aboard them for at least three months a year to do the necessary work. They should then have at least six weeks, or preferably more of active service at sea.

This is a physical impossibility at the present time, naval officers say, as only two full squadrons of destroyers are on active duty at San Diego and even these have only 50 per cent of full crews.

Approximately seventy destroyers have been decommissioned in the past eight months, and more are being decommissioned daily.

Because of their construction, destroyers are said to deteriorate faster than any other type of vessel.

The investment in the phantom squadrons rotting at San Diego is said to be more than $125,000,000.

The examiners of a certain school always try to make the papers as up-to-date and interesting as possible.

During a recent examination one of the questions read thus: "If one horse can run a mile in a minute and a half and another is able to do the same distance in two minutes, how far ahead would the first horse be if the two ran a race of two miles at these respective speeds?"

One pupil returned his paper with the query unanswered, except that he had written on the sheet: "I refuse to have anything to do with horse racing."

"This is my car," exploded the furious tourist to the troublesome garage proprietor, "and what I say about it goes—see?"

Just then an oil-bespattered machinist crept out from beneath the broken-down machine and said, pleadingly:

"Say 'engine,' sir."

A good man is not necessarily a desirable neighbor.

Thanksgiving Day Is Donation Day at the CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

Sunset Boulevard and Vermont Avenue

OPEN HOUSE AT THE CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL ON THANKSGIVING DAY!

"On this day each year," said Mrs. Albert Crutcher, President, "we appeal to the generosity of our friends in an effort to secure donations of linen and blankets to maintain the Hospital for the coming year. We need sheets, both woolen and cotton blankets, rippelette bed spreads, all of these in single bed size; pillow cases, face towels, bath towels, bolts of white crash toweling, wash rags, 18-inch pads for baby cribs, diapers or bolts of material from which diapers can be made, bolts of white outing flannel, bolts of Indian Head, bolts of unbleached muslin, bolts of material for kitchen towels, white marquisette for window curtains, table cloths and table napkins. Donations of money will also be very acceptable."

For twenty-one years the Children's Hospital has cared for the sick and crippled children of Southern California. It depends for support upon donations from lovers of little children; 87% of its time and 75% of its money is devoted to charity work.

The Children's Hospital is non-sectarian and serves the people of Los Angeles and Southern California without regard to creed or color. Last month 271 children were cared for in hospital beds, and 1,481 children were treated in the Free Clinics and Muscle Training Department.

Miss L. V. Swift, superintendent, invites you to bring your donation to the Hospital on Thanksgiving Day.

"Come and see the happy faces of the children who are so patiently undergoing the necessary treatment to make them strong and well. We know you will join with us in our thanks to the wonderful doctors who give their services without charge to restore these unfortunate little ones to health and usefulness."

Mrs. Crutcher, in her appeal, says: "Will you, who have so much for which to be thankful, turn a deaf ear to the needs of these little ones, or will you respond generously and help provide the facilities to remove the handicap that may prevent these boys and girls from reaching that state of manhood and womanhood which is the birthright of every American child?"

If possible, deliver your gift to the Children's Hospital, Sunset Boulevard and Vermont Avenue. Donations may be left at the Children's Hospital Salvage Department, 712 Maple Avenue, and they will be delivered to the Hospital.

Astor Riches Going to England

Major John Jacob Astor

Major John Jacob Astor, younger son of the late William Waldorf Astor, who renounced his American citizenship to become a British peer, in a political address at Dover, England, declared he was transferring his huge American fortune to England. Major Astor was severely wounded in the World war and lost part of his foot while serving with the Royal British Lifeguards, smartest regiment in the British service.

During the performance at a suburban picture theater the following notice was flashed on the screen during the interval:

"Lost, between Maple road and this theater, a purse containing $75. Finder rewarded."

Almost at once a man went to the booking office.

"It's found," he said.

They brought the manager.

"Have you got it?" he asked.

"Oh, no," replied the man, "but I've only just come along that way, and it wasn't there, so it's found."

Truths in Epigram

Our greatest glory consists, not in never failing, but in rising every time we fall.—Goldsmith.

Religion is the best armor a man can have, but it is the worst cloak.—Bunyan.

You may depend upon it that he is a good man whose intimate friends are all good.—Lavater.

IMPEACHMENT

The actual impeachment of an official is rare. Sometimes in the face of a threat of impeachment, an official has been known to resign. In the majority of instances, if he shows a tendency to stick to his guns, the movement against him dies out. Impeachment is so grave a process that any deliberative body hesitates to inflict it unless on the most absolute evidence. The country has heard considerable talk as to the impeachment of Attorney General Daugherty. The statement is made that proceedings are to be "started as soon as possible." This is so vague that it conveys little or no meaning. Many months have elapsed since the first talk of impeachment. It is to be assumed that an official disturbed by the knowledge that there are plans for his ousting, under conditions involving disgrace, is not in the best shape to perform the duties of his position. There are scores of important matters now under consideration by the attorney general and a large array of legal talent specifically hired for the purpose. Among the men under fire from the guns of Daugherty's forces are many charged with crime. In some instances the allegation is that millions have been stolen from the government by individuals and concerns. The names of the accused are in the records, together with some account of their methods. Perhaps they are unjustly charged, but the general opinion is contrary to such view. Perhaps they are guilty. Information on the point is much desired.

Now if an official had collected data fatal to the reputations of a lot of crooked contractors they might not have any wish to cause his impeachment. On the other hand, they might. Anyhow the possibility comes to mind.

WELLS GOT LEFT

When H. G. Wells was nominated for parliament on the laborite ticket, the natural thought was that the politicians had shown fine discretion. They had not been content with a candidate of ordinary clay. They desired to be represented by a great intelligence. Doubtless they were aware that Wells had written books abounding in theories, and they may have wanted to see some of the theories tried out. The plan did not work at all. Wells, the mighty mind, was the worst licked man on a ticket that experienced a general drubbing. Perhaps it is as well. Thinking over some of the Wells theories, none comes to mind that seems to dovetail with actual circumstance. There must be recognition of the fact that the author believes in a fair deal for everybody. His notions of what constitute a fair deal are nebulous. When he wrote his "Outlines of History," truly a notable work, he seemed more secure in his opinion concerning the Neanderthal man, than concerning such a person as Lenine. He peered with absolute courage into the past, and laid down opinions freely concerning the long ago. But he went into Russia, studied the situation there, hobnobbed with the leaders, and if he learned anything, certainly failed to set it down for the benefit of his readers. If voters who upheld the English labor ticket are readers, and particularly if they have been reading Wells, they may have concluded that they wanted a representative whose ideas met conditions of today. Conditions as they prevailed in prehistoric times are interesting, but have no perceptible bearing upon work and wages now.

SECRET DIPLOMACY AGAIN

There seems to be every indication that whatever may be done at the Lausanne conference, will be done behind closed doors. Proceedings are to reach the public only through selected channels and after such modifications as may be deemed suitable. In other words, the old methods of secret diplomacy still are in vogue. Mussolini of Italy, somewhat new to such transactions, appears to be quite open in his declarations. It is possible that he may not accept the rule that diplomacy should conceal its activities from the nations the activities affect.

Agreement is quite general that no good has come from secret diplomacy. On the other hand it has caused misunderstandings and conflicts. That the representatives of a people should not do anything they are ashamed to reveal, or the revelation of which would be injurious to public interest, has seemed to be demonstrated many times. A nation has a right to know every obligation that is being placed upon it. There have been instances in which good reasons developed for the making of a treaty, and then would come the discovery that such treaty could not be made. Behind locked doors and drawn curtains, some groups of men, acting as though afraid of being detected, had drawn up some agreement making impossible the treaty demanded by circumstance.

As a matter of fact there is no part of the civilized world that is not deeply concerned as to the outcome of the Lausanne conference. Peace or war may be the issue. And no small group alone has a right to make a decision that must be vital to the interests of at least one continent.

DEATH OF FRANK BACON

The death of Frank Bacon, actor, is recorded. The announcement of it carried sorrow to countless thousands. He had been spoken of as the most beloved man in the theatrical profession. No tribute well could have been finer while he lived. The spirit of it becomes a fitting obituary. Mr. Bacon starred in a play of his own, and had achieved a success almost without parallel. He had applied himself with great zeal to perfect interpretation of the role. He had become tired. He said that he wanted to rest. And then there descended upon him the blessing of rest.

Death is not all sad when it comes with swiftness, and calls to one who is in the midst of success. Far more sad it is when it delays, as strength wanes, ambition passes, and hope fades. One day Mr. Bacon was acclaimed great. He had the joy of popularity. He knew that he had done much to promote human happiness. The plaudits of great audiences still rang in his ears. Then it was that the silence came to him, and the rest for which he had yearned, was his in full measure.

A TYPICAL RECORD OF TRAGEDY

Last Sunday in or near Los Angeles four persons were killed in automobile clashes. It happened that some of the number were of more than ordinary social prominence. This fact tends merely to accentuate the sense of danger by calling attention to perils of the road. People will notice that a society woman has been killed, while the reported death of some unknown laborer would fail to make any impression. Names of people of wealth and distinction are not frequent in reports of highway disasters. A probable reason is that they have excellent drivers and the best machines procurable. The life of the citizen who has to use a flivver, however, counts for as much as that of the occupant of the limousine.

There is a renewed demand for violators of the traffic ordinances to be sent to jail. Probably enforcement of such a rule would promote safety. It would abate individual perils, and it might in the end inculcate respect for law, which is the only remedy for the situation.

Something is basically wrong with the method of issuing licenses. A man buys a machine, perhaps never having sat at a steering wheel. When the machine is delivered he gets with it a license to drive. This before he knows how to start or stop, and while the names of different parts of the mechanism he is to control, convey no meaning to him. If a cautious and conscientious person, he learns to drive before venturing abroad with a machine he has no moral right to handle save under the eye of an instructor.

But singularly enough, the green driver seldom is the cause of accidents, for he knows his inability and adopts extreme caution. The mass of blame rests upon the drivers who know, but don't care.

The Battle of Catch Phrases

By DR. FRANK CRANE

It is raging constantly.

People do not argue, they hurl catch phrases. They do not believe and disbelieve, they yell war cries at each other.

Dr. Frank Crane

About all that a republican knows as to his political convictions is that he is not a democrat.

When a small mind gets hold of a large word he crawls into it as a hermit crab into a whelk shell.

Over the teacups at the plaza the young lady smiles and says: "Oh, yes! Einstein. The fourth dimension, you know, and all that. It's dreadfully interesting."

The doctor feels your pulse, pats your hand, and quiets all your fears when he assures you that it's only a small attack of prophylacterum chyli with perhaps a touch of ephemeral binocular humdingus. What a Godsend is a woozy word! You go right off to sleep.

Socialism seems to be one phalanx of terms and single tax another.

The study of law is the acquisition of a new language, and you cannot be a shining light among music patrons unless you know your titles.

Even golf players have a vocabulary of their own, and you have to be as tonguey with the lingo as you are handy with the niblick if you would rank high.

The uninitiated can read French about as easily as they can read the baseball news, where our native tongue lies dead and buried beneath a wealth of new and gorgeous slang.

It's funny to hear a dispute in the smoking room of a Pullman or in a club. No cerebration appears to take place at all. The contestants simply vie with one another to see which can think up the most phrases he has heard before.

Newspaper editorials and magazines of opinion herd the same flock of dear old shibboleths across the page each issue. And the reader thinks he's thinking.

Young folks become engaged by swapping conventional phrases. They are married by ritual. When the baby is born all the things to say about the event are known and repeated. All his school days the child is taught the formulae of knowledge. In business and society he does the usual and the expected, and he talks about it, and others answer, by saying the expected and the usual.

And when he dies, the undertaker, most potent worshipful master of all the realm of utter propriety, takes charge, friends come with their armfuls of phrases, and as the remains are lowered into the grave the parson says the same thing he has said at every funeral he has attended for the last forty years.

"Man," said R. L. Stevenson, "shall not live by bread alone, but also by Catch Phrases."

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

A goodly number of impulsive people make haste to criticise.

They criticise forms of government, the actions of human beings, the verdicts of juries, the kinds of religion, and the doings of statesmen.

All indiscriminately.

Without hesitation or reservation.

* * *

We say they are impulsive people.

And they mean well.

They would wipe out what they think is wrong and injustice and difference of opinion with the sweep of an arm.

Unfortunately, it cannot be done.

Criticism of the verdicts of juries is easy. It is like the man who stands on the street corner and tells what he would do if he were president.

He thinks he knows what he would do.

When the responsibility is put squarely up to him he becomes conservative.

* * *

Orators on the platform and ministers in the pulpit and editors in the sanctum dispose of world-large problems with a sentence, a text or a typewriter.

It is easy to do that way.

Just as it is easy to fight a battle a long distance from the field.

* * *

It is easy to be critical.

It is not so easy to be constructive.

It is easy to say we should declare war on the Turks.

But it is not so easy when the critic is confronted squarely with the matter of war as a thing of his own making.

* * *

Recently there have been heated criticisms of the verdict of a jury in a murder trial.

The critics declare they would have hanged the defendant without question.

Confronted with the responsibility the chances are they would have done what the jury really did.

Compromised.

* * *

Life is a good deal of a compromise.

The dreamer compromises between sweeping cobwebs out of the sky and sweeping leaves off the lawn.

The statesman compromises between pure altruism and practical agreement.

The average man compromises between the things he would do and the things he may do.

There is no hard and fast rule by which we can live life.

The fond parent compromises between marshmallows and chocolate creams and oatmeal and milk.

Otherwise the beloved child would die of oversweetening.

* * *

If you gather together twelve persons on the street as you may chance to find them and ask them to decide any question in which there is a chance for difference of opinion, how long before they will be of the same mind?

At once or never?

Probably never.

* * *

In the end the twelve persons will approximate a reasonable decision.

But it will not perhaps be the one you would have formed instantly.

Nothing in the world is quite exact perhaps except the multiplication table.

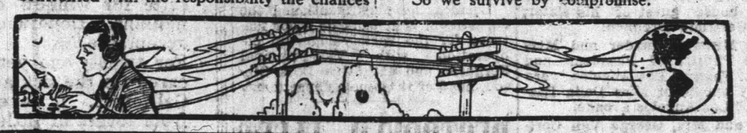
* * *

It is the averaged opinion of Smith and Jones and Brown that makes it possible for us to get along together.

For each may be in part right and in part wrong.

And nobody can quite say just what is right and just what is wrong.

So we survive by compromise.



Songs of the Poets

Sage Counsel—By Arthur Quiller-Couch

The lion is the beast to fight:
He leaps along the plain,
And if you run with all your might,
He runs with all his mane.
I'm glad I'm not a Hottentot,
But if I were, with outward cal-lum
I'd either faint upon the spot
Or hie me up a leafy pal-lum.

The chamois is the beast to hunt:
He's fleeter than the wind,
And when the chamois is in front,
The hunter is behind.
The Tyrolese make famous cheese
And hunt the chamois o'er the chaz-zums;
I'd choose the former, if you please
For precipices give me spaz-zums.

The polar bear will make a rug
Almost as white as snow:
But if he gets you in his hug,
He rarely lets you go.
And polar ice is very nice,
With all the colors of a prissum:
But, if you'll follow my advice,
Stay home and learn your catechissum.

Anti-Serum for Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever Produced

A serum for combating the highly fatal malady, Rocky mountain spotted fever, has been produced in the laboratories of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, Dr. Hideyo Noguchi has announced to the National Academy of Sciences.

"We have been able to produce a serum the strength of which is such that the injection of one-tenth of a cubic centimeter suffices to prevent or abort the disease in guinea pigs when the injection is made from one to four, and sometimes as long as six, days after the inoculation of the virus," said Dr. Noguchi, who is already famous because of his isolation and cultivation of micro-organisms causing yellow fever, his development of preventive vaccine and curative serum for yellow fever, and other medical work.

"Since in human beings the fact of a bite by a wood tick is usually discovered several days before the onset of the fever and other symptoms of the fatal disease," he explains, "it is hoped that the injection of the serum is approximately the same proportion, 15 centimeters for a man of 150 pounds, may succeed in averting or aborting and thus bringing to a favorable issue the impending malady."

Rocky Mountain spotted fever, a highly fatal malady, is transmitted to human beings through the bite of a wood tick infesting the woods and pastures in parts of Montana, Wyoming and Idaho, Dr. Noguchi explained. The disease reaches in certain places a mortality of 70 to 80 per cent. Farmers, herdsmen, lumbermen and sportsmen are thus especially attacked.

The micro-organism responsible for the disease goes by the name of the virus of Rocky mountain spotted fever and is believed to belong to the class of parasites called Rickettsia, which includes also the virus inciting typhus fever, another insect-borne (lice) disease of man.

"Rocky mountain spotted fever, like typhus fever, can be communicated by inoculation to guinea pigs, which develop symptoms comparable to those occurring in man, show organic changes resembling those in man, and succumb as a rule to the infection induced," he said. "These animals therefore constitute a favorable test material for an antiserum which may also be effective in man."

"Rabbits, on the other hand, tend to withstand the experimental infection. While the mortality in inoculated guinea pigs is 80 to 100 per cent, that in rabbits is about 20 per cent. For this reason, and because the guinea pig is too small, and horses have given unsatisfactory results, we have employed the rabbit in which to prepare an antiserum."

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THE WETS' TOUGH TASK

[Capper's Weekly]

Some clothing men figure a $10 advance in the price of a suit of clothes because of the tariff on wool, although the duty is less than under the emergency tariff. Besides most of the cloth now being sold was made from "free" wool imported at the lowest price ever recorded. The farm bureau finds 9.8 pounds of grease wool is sufficient to make an all-wool suit. The total cost of this wool at 20 cents a pound, the average price received last year, would make a total of $1.96, providing only wool was used.

[New York Herald]

A few months ago one of the famous old bad men of the once wild west dropped dead while quaffing at a soda fountain. Now four young men charge that the cashier of a fashionable Broadway candy store held them up with an automatic pistol and compelled them to pay for four ice cream sodas they had never enguifed.

Whither, indeed, are we drifting? Have tragedy and wickedness taken so easily to the haunts and habits of virtue? Can it be true, when death and violence stalk so dramatically in front of the soda counter, that men who never drank before prohibition are taking by thousands to the red stuff now?

Surprises are so frequent that nobody is surprised. Villa, the reformed Mexican bandit, undoubtedly is taking a correspondence course in etiquette. Possibly Raisuli, the Moroccan bandit, is reading "Sandford and Merton" for the first time.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

It is a little surprising to learn that the Red Cross roll call is not progressing well. One is inclined even to be ashamed of the circumstance. People are thoughtless in their neglect, rather than selfish. They hear a call to which they should be glad to respond, and they fail to respond. This is short-sighted policy.

HENRY JAMES

There have been great earthquakes in Chile. Emissaries of the Red Cross already are active in the devastated area. It is satisfactory to know this. But Chile is not the only region subject to the great catastrophes occasionally loosed by the forces of nature. There is no absolute security on the face of the earth. There is no section that may not be swept by disaster of some sort. The very persons who stifle the impulse to help the Red Cross, may be the next to whom that organization will be called to minister.

The war caused the scope of the Red Cross to be greatly enlarged. The necessities thus met did not cease to appeal with the coming of peace. Much of the Red Cross work now has to do with the ex-service man. While congress has discussed his case, and side-stepped the performance of duty, the Red Cross, too busy for discussion, has been extending aid and comfort. It would continue to do so.

For its field of endeavor the Red Cross has the whole world. Its purpose is all benign. It makes no distinction as to race or color. It is the friend of humanity, the comforter in every time of stress. It needs money. It must have money or its great work halt. If the money is withheld by this prosperous people, the spectacle may be viewed only with a keen sense of humiliation.

* * *

Congress met promptly in obedience to the executive summons. it is believed that the obedience of the legislative body may end at this point. Many of the members do not feel friendly towards administration measures, and others are so sore over the loss of their jobs that they hate to oblige anybody.

* * *

When a bonus bill is launched at the opening of congress, the thought arises that some member has in mind the welfare of the ex-service men. Then one observes that the revenue to meet the requirements of the measure is to be raised by a tax on legalized liquors. Ensues the reflection that perhaps the bill is due to interest in the liquor traffic, rather than in token of gratitude to the country's soldiers.

It is a mean legislative trick to encumber a laudable bill with conditions that supporters of the bill could sustain only with reluctance if at all.

A baby born in Chicago recently had neither arms nor legs. The father of the malformed mite begged that the doctors permit it to die. They decided that they had no right to do this, and so far as medical skill can serve, the unfortunate little one will live.

There is no question but that death would be preferable to life. But there is a question as to ethics and to human authority.

* * *

Of course the validity of the Wright act will be subjected to test at the behest of interests that hope to have it declared unconstitutional. It is rather natural to predict that these interests have a disappointment in store. California lagged behind more than two score states in enactment of a law identical in purpose, and similar in phraseology. No thirsty minority anywhere has yet succeeded in having the law knocked out.

Various interpretations of the Wright law are being made by amateur opponents who hope thus to create prejudice against it. They explain the terms as obnoxious, and the action that may be taken in enforcement, as against the constitution. The trouble with them is that they have no authority, and their explanation is wholly without merit.

Judge Bledsoe rules that the county has a right to seize land for park purposes. The decision will be welcome to all but members of the Rindge group. These people for years have been fighting the interests of the public, having won notoriety by trying to keep the people from constructing a shore road. Happily so far, notoriety is all they seem to have won.

* * *

It is stated that the government is preparing to close three large establishments in Los Angeles. Posted upon each will be the legend:

"This place has been closed by orders of the United States government for violation of the national prohibition act."

Dealers disobey the law for gain. Cut off the gain, or change it to actual loss, and they will cease to disobey.

* * *

Much discussion has been had in relation to the "living wage." The term of course, is not absolute. In the sense that wages should afford the earner of the same a decent living, there could be no logical opposition. People earn wages for the purpose of living. To live, in a proper sense, includes participation in certain of the comforts and decencies of existence. If industry does not bring this reward, it is not being adequately paid.

* * *

Soon there is to be paid to Californians a large sum, representing the money they had put into government certificates. It has been thought necessary to issue warning that the land is full of swindling schemes, and that an onslaught will be made by the underworld of business upon the money loosed here by the government.

There are many fields for legitimate investment. Despite these, gold brick games still flourish. People insist upon buying oil stock from strangers, upon going into land projects involving areas they never have seen, betting on races never run. Some of the methods are so palpably fraudulent that warnings are futile. A person who could not see through them at a glance, could not appreciate a warning.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

If ever I determine to be a man of leisure, which I will not, for reason connected with the rent, grocery and meat market business, I'm going to make sure how long the leisure will last before I start on it. Which sage observation dates back to the prettiest Gordon setter I ever saw and her adoring owner. It was back in my home town, and he was the son of the town's richest man.

"He has been to Europe n'everywhere," we used to say to each other with awe.

The old man wanted him to go to work. A wise, loving mother besought him to make himself master of a profession. But a fool sister, successfully married to an Italian title, urged against it.

"He will always have money enough," said she. "Let him live the life of a gentleman, as the young men of Europe do. Let him enjoy life, grow broad, understand art and music and literature. We in America need the refining influence of a leisured class——"

Maybe you've heard that distressing yowp before. At any rate, the young man refused to work. The only real toil he ever did was over the fields behind that marvelous Gordon setter, or dropping a fly deftly into the one eddy where a trout might lark in our little river. We of the village were proud of him. His clothes came from London in tin cans, and he played the violin by the great fireside in a home that had been ancestral for almost one generation, and he rode a different sort of a horse.

"So he lost his money," you say, "and had to go to work. I know the rest of the story."

But he did not. He did not lose a penny. But he married a wife and she cost him money and when she divorced him that cost more. His sons and daughters cost him money. He is living on a big patch of woodlands down south now, which is about the only asset he has left of what was once a pretty fair fortune. It is worth all and more than all the money he originally inherited, but it affords almost no income at all. He is working with his hands to keep himself going while he waits for that piece of woodland to turn to gold.

"And you'd hardly think it," he said, apologetically, "but I like to work. I like to do things and make things go. It's fun. What a fool I was to miss the best of life in playing the man of leisure."

FRATERNAL BEE-KEEPERS HOLD FIRST MEETING

The Fraternal Beekeepers' association closed its first annual session on last Saturday. This association was organized one year ago by a large number of the leading beekeepers of the southland, south of the Tehachapi, to primarily take the place in the hearts of the beekeepers, left vacant by the removal of the activities of the California State Beekeepers' association to the extreme north locality, thereby depriving beekeepers of Southern California of the pleasure, as well as the profit, derived from its annual meetings in Los Angeles for many years past. The session lasted over two days, and was largely attended by beemen from all sections of the southland, there being an unusually large number of women present, more so than for many of the assemblies of beekeepers in the past 10 years.

The first session was taken up largely in the outlining of the present meeting, by President Buchanan of Glendale, and arranging the program which was to be carried out.

Tariff on honey and beeswax was outlined by Mr. Knabenshue, editor of the Western Honey Bee. Some of the essential points covering the duty on honey and beeswax, the present duty being relatively higher than at any time in the history of honey production, being approximately 36 cents per gallon. Its operations, from an economic standpoint, will be very closely watched by the honey producers in general throughout the entire country.

Standardization of supplies was exploited by Mr. Emerson, in no uncertain language, standing very strong for a more uniform, standard equipment for the beekeepers, especially in hives, supers, frames, sections, etc., eliminating the manufacturing of many of the odd sizes, etc. A committee was appointed by the chair to consider this matter and report at the next session.

Mr. Henry Perkins gave one of his most interesting talks, on the question of rearing good queens, for therein lies the secret of successful beekeeping. He also gave a full and complete demonstration in the handling of delicate queen larvaes, etc., of grafting cells and cell building, as it is handled by the beekeepers of today. The demonstration attracted much interest on the part of those present, professional as well as amateur beekeepers, and they were many.

The question of vitamines in honey was most attractively handled by Mrs. Boylden, who has recently joined the California colony of beekeepers. Mrs. Boyden is a daughter of Mr. A. I. Root, of world-wide fame in the beekeeping world. Her subject was ably handled, she having made this particular phase of the matter a very close study in past years, in general and research work.

Mr. Foteree of the Boquet canyon country demonstrated the fact that he could ably handle the commissary department, a la chef, as well as keep bees, and covered himself all over with glory, distributing sandwiches and hot coffee to all those that choose to come his way.

Featuring the occasion, several very interesting demonstrations of labor-saving devices were on exhibition, such as honey extractors, wax extractors, both power and hand, all of which were of unusual interest, especially those of the amateur class, and there were quite a number of them. Officers for the ensuing year were elected: Mr. George Emerson, president; Mr. A. B. Shaffner, secretary.

The next annual meeting of the association will be held at Exposition park assembly rooms, Los Angeles, Cal.

At the conclusion of the election of officers, committees, etc., the session adjourned sine die.

There is a brewer in Milwaukee who has the precious gift of imagination.

When brewing ceased in Milwaukee he sat down and thought and presently evolved a formula for "near-beer," an anaemic ghost of the real juice, warranted non-intoxicant.

Then he had a special label printed for his bottles. It read:

"It is forbidden by law to put a raisin into this beverage, since it has the effect of making it intoxicating."

The brewer made a fortune.

ALL STAR TEAMS NOT WINNERS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—After hte performance of the New York Yankees in the late world's series, the sport philosophers who have advanced adverse opinions on the star system were vindicated.

In the baseball field alone there are examples beyond enumeration that a working team of only ordinarily efficient individuals is more to be desired than a constellation of all stars.

The Giants are generally regarded as an all-star team, and they are, almost from man to man, but the idea of teamwork bove individual glory is demanded by John McGraw, perhaps the only manager in baseball who could do it.

Since the days of the Philadelphia Athletics, no world's championship has been won by a team of great stars. The Cincinnati Reds and the Cleveland Indians had no stars of outstanding brilliance and their victories were won by clever, smooth working teamwork.

* * * * * * *

As the argument against the star system holds generally true in baseball, it also applies to football.

The Princeton teams of 1921 and 1922 are good examples. Last year the Tigers were made up of some of the greatest stars in the ast, such as Don Lourie, All-American quarterback; Stanley Keck, All-American tackle; Hank Gharrity, Ralph Gilroy and other outstanding stars.

Yet, from a Princeton standpoint, it was an unsuccessful season. The Tigers beat Harvard game and Yale beat them.

This fall, advance mourning was put on by the friends of Princeton. The Tigers had to start out with a few veterans of no established reputation and a lot of green material. Yet that little considered team proved to be one of the surprises of the season and if they did nothing else they did something no other Princeton team had done in 26 years when they beat Harvard on the Crimson's home lot.

* * * * * * *

Yale provides more argument against the advantage of the star system. The chief difficulty at New Haven this season was caused by the possession of too many star backfield men. There were so many that Coach Tad Jonse was like the old woman in the shoe.

When having on his hands suhc material as Capt. Ralph Jordan, O'Hearn, Mallory, Beckett, Neidlinger, Neale, Wight, Bench and Kelly would make six coachse feel blessed with fortune, it made Jones overladen with trouble.

* * * * * * *

In golf and tennis a star combination works better perhaps than in any other sport, but the rule is not inviolate. Bill Tilden and Bill oJhnston, the two greatest singles players in the world, are a great doubles combination, but one almost as good is Gerald Patterson teamed with Pat O'Hara Wood, who is only an ordinary singles performed, but one of the game's greatest artists in double harness.

The Once Over

THE BLUENOSE-FORD REGATTA
By H. I. PHILLIPS

The championship of the North Atlantic fishing fleet goes to the Canadian boat Bluenose. The Henry Ford broke an axle and lost a couple of bolts going around the turns in the deciding race. The Ford skipper, Captain Morrissey, lost something every time he took his boat out of the Gloucester garage. The first day he lost the decision, the second day he lost his temper and the third day he lost his crew.

* * *

Captain Morrissey now thinks he made a mistake naming his ship after Ford, when there were so many other cars to choose from. The races were very bitterly fought out, especially on land, and there is prospect of an early war between Canada and the United States over the final result.

* * *

The Ford won the first two races, only to have one victory ruled illegal because she refused to stop on signal. The Bluenose won the last two. Nothing of importance is settled, except that the Bluenose is the better boat for codfish to take if they are looking for speed.

* * *

Just why they named the American entry in the international schooner race after Henry Ford is not known, but it certainly is high time some American business man went after the advertsiing heretofore exclusively controlled by Sir Thomas Lipton. And, too, you've gotta admit Henry is a very prominent builder of small boats.

* * *

Another theory is that the boat was an experiment and that Ford will now correct the defects and arrange for quantity production. Heretofore it has been difficult for a poor fisherman to go into the codfish business for himself because of the high cost of fishing boats. It is now anticipated that Ford will make it possible for him to become a schooner owner at a total outlay of $285 f. o. b. Detroit. Twenty-five herring down and 12 cod a week.

* * *

All of which will tend to help his boom for the presidency by guaranteeing him the Herring Hunters' and Boneless Codfish Trawlers' vote.

* * *

Never before in the history of the country has any candidate had the united deep sea fishermen's support, although Cleveland was twice swept into office by the domestic anglers and certified fly casters.

* * *

Little glory will accrue to anybody, however, from the races themselves, although they would make a great vaudeville act. The first race was declared no contest. Wet grounds. Just after the start of this contest the race officials ordered both boats to come back, but the skippers insisted upon going through with the contest, so as not to disappoint the assembled fish dealers. Ford won, but the committee refused to consider it a race, whereupon the crew waxed indignant, declaring that where they came from a race was a race regardless of weather, and regardless of the decisions of a committee of pink-faced yachtsmen in white flannel pants.

* * *

Neither ship fell apart in any of the first three races. This made it quite different from the international yacht races held off New York two summers ago. In those races it was the custom for each yacht to sail out beyond the three-mile limit and break into as many parts as possible. Whichever part got home again first won.

* * *

No trouble was experienced by the regatta committee getting the Shamrock and Resolute back when they called them back. In fact, they generally drifted back of their own accord. Whereupon the committee would nail them together again and fire another starting gun. It is understood to be one of the great satisfactions of Henry Ford's life that neither one of those yachts was named after him.

JEFFERY FARNOL BOOK AT THE LIBRARY

"Peregrine's Progress," by Jeffery Farnol, published by Little, Brown & Company, is one of the new volumes which is soon to be released for distribution at the Glendale public library, and has also been quite in demand at the various book shops. This is a dashing tale, full of action, crowded with tense moments, with gypsies, rogues, men of fashion, lovely ladies and ladies not so lovely, the life of country, the life of fashion.

Particularly interesting are the descriptive passages such as when his lordship, the Earl of Wyvelstoke, philosophizes to Peregrine regarding music: "We possess a divine joy, a soul medium, a very gift of God, and we call it—music. To such as have ears, music is the speech of Gods, of the Infinite, soaring far above mere words, revealing the unconceived, speaking forth the unthinkable."

Peregrine Vereker, in the eyes of his Aunt Julia, who brought him up to the mature age of nineteen, was a polished young gentleman, an incipient artist and poet. In the opinion of his two uncles, he was an ignorant mollycoddle, a ladylike nincompoop, unacquainted with manliness. Stung by their scorn, Peregrine "ran away," as many a lad before and since, to learn the world and prove his worth, and ran the gamut of happiness and misery, of fear and courage, of loneliness and love, before he matched up to the requirements of his two uncles.

In this very refreshing novel, Mr. Farnol has returned to the period of the early nineteenth century, and Peregrine, in his "progress," meets with much the same gentry as peopled the England of "The Broad Highway." Several characters of that delightful romance have an active hand in Peregrine's education, particularly the Tinker, that master of wholesome philisophy. The lure of the outdoors, the charm of the English country life and the life of this particular period are combined with the brilliancy and imagination which made Mr. Farnol's previous works so popular.

In happy anticipation of their approaching annual holiday at the seaside, Kenneth and Joan were playing at "boarding house," with Joan in the role of applicant.

"Have you parents?" inquired Kenneth, with great stiffness of manner.

"Yes, sir, two," replied Joan timidly.

"Sorry, ma'em, but we never take children who have parents," said Kenneth; "no 'cumbrances here."

DUTY

The duty of a retail lumber yard does not consist only in selling lumber. To consider carefully the individual requirements of each customer, to recommend only those materials which satisfactorily fill those requirements.

To conscientiously advise our customers on the various building problems that may arise.

In addition to the above the use of our complete filing system is available, by means of which the prospective builder can get in touch with contractors, carpenters, builders, plasterers and cement workers.

These are functions which this firm consider its elementary duties.
